Recreate Leadership

9.05-9.55 am	Teacher Librarians as Learning Leaders Because libraries are the heart of learning in a school, teacher librarians require visionary leadership, the attention to detail of a pedant and the ability to collaborate with all. What remarkably diverse skill sets are essential to success in dynamic learning hubs! This keynote intends to highlight the communication skills required to enable a vision to be articulated and trust to be engendered. Information will be shared as to how to shift seamlessly from the macro to micro lenses and back again, as all good leaders must.	Sally Ruston	Peter Duly Concert Hall

9.55-10.55 am	The Library and Information Technology: leading learning together In this session Brad will share his experience of leading a large library team in conjunction with the IT integrators to form a cohesive and successful model of what a school library can be. The session will be packed with real examples, real sites and a deep dive into those specific questions you have always wanted to know about libraries that coexist with IT departments. The end of the session will be about where to into the future with a sneak peak of the new strategic plans.	Brad Tyrrell	Peter Duly Concert Hall

2.05-2.25 pm	Curiosity and creativity: the library an incubator Teacher librarians must keep moving forward and push the boundaries of what libraries can be in response to changing clientele profiles, attitudes and usage patterns. As well as maintaining traditional roles, libraries are great places for students and teachers to create and connect in environments that encourage and enhance a sense of innovation, play, tinkering, creativity and entrepreneurship. This presentation tracks the journey of our middle school library as we continue to create a space full of creativity and curiosity.	Sunny South
