Grace Cossington Smith Gallery and Abbotsleigh are excited to launch the Young Curators exhibition Euan Macleod Plein-Air. The Young Curators initiative, by 3:33 Art Projects, enabled a collaboration between Abbotsleigh and Hornsby Girls High School.

3:33 Art Projects created the innovative Young Curators art program to partner with secondary schools. It supports education in the arts and enables unique experiences for the students, the school and the broader community whilst supporting Australian artists. The Young Curators program provides opportunity for teachers and students to engage directly with Australian contemporary artists and develop strategies and activities that enable learning about artists and the process of exhibition curating.

3:33 Art Projects has collaborated with leading artists including Euan Macleod, Jasper Knight, Reg Mombassa, Noel McKenna and Vanessa Stockard at schools including Knox Grammar School, Tuggerah Lakes Secondary College, International Grammar School, Trinity Grammar School, Abbotsleigh and Hornsby Girls High School.

The Grace Cossington Smith Gallery is proud to be working in association with 3:33 Art Projects.
